

Here I am Li on's Choice-

I have noticed that the woman at the front desk seems to be evasive in answering why the washer has no hot water. The maintenance man Marcus (his name according to the woman at the front desk (working today Nov 27 2015) said that the washer was in the rinse cycle and when it is in the rinse cycle there is no hot water. When I talked to the woman at the front desk she said that we are all on one tank (with me wearing camouflage ((top and bottom) the only clean and dry (partially) clothes after I did laundry (approximately). She said that the maids did laundry and people took showers is the reason for no hot water (not in agreement with Marcus that said the cold water was due to the rinse cycle (as he winked at me). The woman at the front desk is a woman that was on the News back in approximately 1977 (NBC (Channel 5) or CBS (Channel 4)) (if I remember correctly, although she doesn't look much older than she did back then). She was being evasive when talking to a reporter on the News about some crime (possibly a burglary). One person watching the news said that getting answers from her is like trying to pull tuna from a cat's mouth. An F-15 engineer from McDonnell Douglas responded by saying ""That is about right"".

Thank You,

Jay C. Slavick