As consumers we have seen changes to household monthly expenses. Our parents didn't pay for cell phones or television, that money was put into retirement. Now, people don't have home phones, they just use their cell phones to help save money, some us don't have cable to help save that money as well. If you take what's free you are taking that last bit of monthly cash many of us live off. As a 100% DISABLED VETERAN who had to quit working at the age of 43 and at the same time took a 40 to 50 thousand a year pay cut, plus it is a fixed income, there is no possibility of picking up a side job to get through tough times. I hope that since I can't vote for a pay raise like Congress does that you will take fixed income people into account when you consider taking away the sole entertainment many of us have, with the exception of our libraries, next they will charge for that as well the way we are going with wanting to tax or regulate everything.
