

60001387496.txt

I fully support Blackboard's Petition for Declaratory Ruling regarding liability for educational messaging. As a college administrator who using Blackboard Connect frequently to remind students of important deadlines and information to support their success, it makes no sense to me to include educational institutions in the TCPA regulation. Students do not often read letters, but they do respond to phone calls and text messages.