Since 1981 I have watched rates increase and services dwindle. As cable providers monopolistically grow so does the price and gerrymandering of their products structure. Customer service used to be responsive with interest in the local populace. Now cable providers are behemoths that rarely know where you live or care really if your dissatisfied. Allowing this massive merger will help Wall street surely but it is Main street that pays the bills and that the FCC needs to look out for. TimeWarner and Charter are already gigantic, profitable, and this merger alone serves a very few, the FCC is our only protection against an even greater disassociation from customers and providers big box solutions for their interests while pay just enough attention to the little box needs of millions of customers. Stop this merger and encourage more companies like Google to float us giga internet. This reminds me of the reverse of the phone company situation in the past. Cable companies just can not make enough so the quick cash of the merge is what they want while they try to put all of the cable infrastructure in one massive section of our Country under one manager. Please stop this merger.
