 A tag has been placed on Natsumi Mieko Kimi Kato requesting that it be speedily deleted from Wikipedia. This has been done under section G12 of the criteria for speedy deletion, because the article or image appears to be a clear copyright infringement. This article or image appears to be a direct copy from <http://www.last.fm/music/Natsumi+Mieko+Kimi+Kato/+wiki>. For legal reasons, we cannot accept copyrighted text or images borrowed from other web sites or printed material, and as a consequence, your addition will most likely be deleted. You may use external websites or other printed material as a source of information, but not as a source of sentences. This part is crucial: say it in your own words. Wikipedia takes copyright violations very seriously and persistent violators will be blocked from editing.

If this is the first article that you have created, you may want to read the guide to writing your first article. You may want to consider using the Article Wizard to help you create articles.

If the external website or image belongs to you, and you want to allow Wikipedia to use the text or image — which means allowing other people to modify it — then you must verify that externally by one of the processes explained at Wikipedia:Donating copyrighted materials. If you are not the owner of the external website or image but have permission from that owner, see Wikipedia:Requesting copyright permission. You might want to look at Wikipedia's policies and guidelines for more details, or ask a question here.

If you think this page should not be deleted for this reason, you may contest the nomination by visiting the page and clicking the button labelled "Contest this speedy deletion". This will give you the opportunity to explain why you believe the page should not be deleted. However, be aware that once a page is tagged for speedy deletion, it may be removed without delay. Please do not remove the speedy deletion tag from the page yourself, but do not hesitate to add information in line with Wikipedia's policies and guidelines. ⓘ (ring-ring) 21:54, 24 January 2016 (UTC)

 Please do not write or add to an article about yourself, as you apparently did at Natsumi Mieko Kimi Kato. Creating an autobiography is strongly discouraged – see our guideline on writing autobiographies. If you create such an article, it may be deleted. If what you have done in life is genuinely notable and can be verified according to our policy for articles about living people, someone else will probably create an article about you sooner or later (see Wikipedians with articles). If you wish to add to an existing article about yourself, please propose the changes on its talk page. Please understand that this is an encyclopedia and not a personal web space or social networking site. If your article has already been deleted, please see: Why was my page deleted?, and if you feel the deletion was an error, please discuss it with the deleting administrator. Thank you. ⚠️ Please stop your disruptive editing. If you continue to remove speedy deletion notices from pages you created yourself, you may be blocked from editing. «Loriendrew» 🗨️(ring-ring) 00:06, 25 January 2016 (UTC)

🚫 Please do not remove the {{copyvio}} template from articles. Your action has been reverted. For legal reasons, we cannot accept non-free text or images borrowed from other websites or printed material; such additions will be deleted, and removing copyright notices will not help your case. You can properly contest the deletion at Wikipedia:Copyright problems. If you are the owner of the material, you may release the material under the Creative Commons and GFDL licenses, as detailed at WP:IOWN. Alternatively, you are welcome to create a draft in your own words at a temporary subpage linked from the article. If you continue to insert copyright violations and/or remove copyright notices, you may be blocked from editing. «Loriendrew» 🗨️(ring-ring) 00:07, 25 January 2016 (UTC)

You have been blocked indefinitely from editing for making legal threats or taking legal action. If you think there are good reasons why you should be unblocked, you may appeal this block by first reading the guide to appealing blocks, then adding the following text to the bottom of your talk page:

{{unblock|reason=Your reason here ~~~~}}.
```

You are not allowed to edit Wikipedia while the threats stand or the legal action is unresolved. HighInBC 00:27, 25 January 2016 (UTC)

Hello, Nmkkato, and welcome to Wikipedia! Thank you for your contributions. I hope you like the place and decide to stay. Here are some tips that you might find helpful:

- Link to other articles with `[[double square brackets]]`
  - Here are some articles where you can practice adding links to other articles. When you've got at least two blue links in the article you can remove the code `{{Dead end|date=Month year}}` from near the top of the page.
- Add pictures from Wikimedia Commons using `[[double square brackets with|thumb for thumbnail|Left, right or center so it knows where to go|a meaningful caption|alt=a description for blind people]]`
  - Example `[[Image:Chocolate chip cookies.jpg|thumb|right|Wiki biscuits are guaranteed zero calories! ]]`
  - Click here for an exercise in adding images to articles.
- Add headings with `==double equal signs==`
  - If an article has sections two editors can edit different sections simultaneously without edit conflicts. Add enough sections and you get a contents section.
  - Here are articles where you can practice adding sections when you've finished splitting an article into sections you can remove the code `{{sections|date=Month year}}` from the top of the page.
    - `===subheadings are similar===`
- When you add information to Wikipedia please precis things in your own words, and tell us where you got the information from in the following format `<ref>[The webpage, book or magazine you are citing, a description, the word "retrieved" and today's date]</ref>`
- If you find unreferenced information on Wikipedia that you consider dubious or unlikely, first try to reference it with a search on the internet. If you know it is wrong correct it, if you can't find a source then `{{fact}}` adds the famous `[citation needed]`. If after a week no-one has referenced the information, feel free to remove it.
- "Double single quotes" gives you Italic and "triple quotes" Bold.

Welcome to Wikipedia!

Many Wikipedians organise themselves by subject area, we have hundreds of WikiProjects ranging from Arts to Zoology, and I'm sure there will be ones that fit your interests. A good place to look for them is Category:WikiProjects\_by\_area, alternatively look at the talkpages of articles you are interested in and see which WikiProjects have placed templates there.

Please remember to sign your messages on talk pages by typing four tildes (`~~~~`); this will automatically insert your username and the date. If you need help, check out Wikipedia:Questions, visit The Teahouse, ask me on my talk page, or ask for help on your talk page, and a volunteer should respond shortly. Again, welcome!

Natsumi Mieko Kimi Kato [ edit source ]

This is an automated message from CorenSearchBot. I have performed a web search with the contents of Natsumi Mieko Kimi Kato, and it appears to include material copied directly from <http://www.last.fm/music/Natsumi+Mieko+Kimi+Kato/+wiki>.

It is possible that the bot was mistaken and found similarity where none actually exists. If that is the case, you can remove the tag from the article. The article will be reviewed to determine if there are any copyright issues.

If substantial content is duplicated and it is not public domain or available under a compatible license, it will be deleted. For legal reasons, we cannot accept copyrighted text or images borrowed from other web sites or printed material. You may use such publications as a source of information, but not as a source of sentences. See our copyright policy for further details. (If you own the copyright to the previously published content and wish to donate it, see Wikipedia:Donating copyrighted materials for the procedure.) CorenSearchBot (talk) 21:52, 24 January 2016 (UTC)
