

60001426057.txt

Mega-mergers of any sort usually result in the potential, if not actually, skewing benefits in favor of special interests and limit competition and product choice. In this case, eliminating independent voices and points of view. Please consider the segment of population desiring competition. Thank you.