I watch RFDTV on Dish Network. I have been watching RFDTV almost as long as it has been on the air and it is the Channel I watch 75% of the time. The programs I particularly like are the Equine, Farming, Ag, Rodeo, music programming, the programs about the different states, the train programs, and classic tractors. I am 83 years old and have been associated with farming and agriculture most of my life. I still have a couple of equine and hay small acreages. Many of the programs keep me up to date on new products. RFDTV is a channel that is needed to allow the ;younger generation know and appreciate where their food and many of the products their clothing, etc. come from. This channel, also, should not be coupled with other types of packages that people have to pay for and not watch the other channels. Thank you for letting me express my coments.
