Every day, until January 31, 2016, I watched the RFD Channel. I relied on RFD TV primarily for market updates and trends. It is the only channel that focuses on my concerns as a farmer. No other local channel offers coverage of topics that are directly related to my business. To say that I am annoyed that Verizon chose to drop this channel from their lineup would be an understatement. I feel they did a disservice to me, my family, and all American farmers and I will drop their service as soon as my contract with them expires.
