I am writing about taking RFD away from us. It is the only channel that is willing to put out a program acceptable to seniors, christians, farmers and people living in the middle of the country. I feel the urban giants are only trying to put out programs that interest them and the so called upper crust of the country. I believe you are trying to please the 20 percent of the population living on either coast. We receive our RFD on a small company called Decca. I believe you should consider this percentage of people deserve affordable programming too.
