

I agree with the 'Unlock the Box" proposal, and I would like to be able to purchase my own equipment, instead of paying exorbitant monthly lease fees. In fact, I would like to be able to choose my internet provider as well.

Comcast forced the cable box down my throat and I NEVER watch cable TV. After calling numerous times, I was told that, even if I eliminate the cable service, in the end it won't make a big difference pricewise. I pay 10% of my yearly income to Comcast and, despite the fact that I qualify for Comcast Essentials, one of the conditions is not to be Comcast customer for the previous 3 months. I only use Comcast for internet services and, no matter how much I tried, I have NO OTHER choice of internet providers, but Comcast. I'm stuck with Comcast, with everything they WANT to offer and the amount I HAVE to pay.

Thank you,

Victor Alexe
