I watch RFD TV on Charter. As a rural farmer in Massachusetts, I rely on RFD TV to keep me informed of commodity prices, agriculture outlooks and subjects of interest for the several Ag organizations I am associated with. While I recognize that those of us actively involved in agriculture in the East are a minority, if we are forced to look to mainstream TV for information important to our businesses, we are out of luck. Allowing the elimination of RFD TV and other Ag and other Seniors programming just speeds the ultimate elimination of those sources of support for national government.
