

60001529682.txt

The availability of independent content should be taken into consideration as an issue of fairness under any rules of broadcasting providers who are all subsidized by access to the American public.