I watch RFD-TV on DirecTV channel 345. My family watches RFD-TV more than any other channel because it is one of the few channels where good family programming is shown that does not have vulgar language and shows that are insensitive to the average family viewer. RFD-TV also provides a wealth of informational and educational programs about rural life (our heritage) that is viewed by many people like us who are not necessarily farmers but have an interest in learning about the science of farming and how our food is produced. My family and I would not keep paid programming if RFD-TV was not one of the channels we could select. Please consider the actions of network TV in trying to eliminate RFD-TV from viewing options for many, many people.
