The greatness of our country has been brought about because of the success of Agriculture being able to release workers to move to the city and work in the factories. At this point fewer than 2% of our population are growing food and fiber for the other 98% Because of this there is a disconnect between the farm community and the urban community. It should be the responsibility of the networks to preserve our farm heritage by showing programs that explain where their food comes from and how it is produced. If they will not do it voluntarily it should be governments responsibility to force the preservation of our Agricultural heritage.
