This is a hideous proposal. It does smack of a "solution" in search of a problem. As a frequent long distance AM radio listener, I was unaware that AM radio needed to be revitalized.

The proposed change will eliminate a critical source of news and entertainment millions of listeners. If you're trying to revitalize the AM band for millenials, wake up. They live and die by the Internet. They aren't interested in AM. All you will do is terrorize intelligent people who have more than a fifteen second attention span. I guess I need to prepare to have my heart broken by the autocratic, anonymous bureaucrats far away from the heartland.
