I would like to state I agree with the proposed changes to the allocation rules. I feel that the vast majority of the licensees of the clear channel 50,000 watt AM stations are not serving their local communities let alone the massive coverage they have at this time. When I can move my radio across the dial and hear the same programming on station after station I feel the current licensees are NOT DOING THEIR JOB serving the public in the PUBLIC'S INTEREST. It is a sad state of affairs that I have to tune to a Canadian station to hear diversity in programming. If this change allows ONE local broadcaster to create some diversity on the AM Band then I am for it. Mark McVey
