We watch RFD-TV on DISH satellite service. This is a channel that we can count on to help continue our ranching and farming heritages. Not only do they have shows that true rural people can relate to and learn from, but non-rural people can learn about a way of life that they haven't had the opportunity to live. You can click on RFD and never worry about your small children being in the room. Please preserve this and other independent networks. Thank you
