I watch RFD TV on Dish Network. The kind of programming found on this station is not found on any other channel. We watch Ag-PhD every week and use the information we learn on this show to inform and improve our farming practice. Our country is unique in that we protect information sharing and speech for not only the majority, but also for the minority. While RFD TV may have a small market share, the information available on this channel is unique to it and is of importance to the audience. With the prevalence of reality TV and other entertainment shows that have no educational or social value, it is important that we preserve those outlets who provide valuable educational programming. Thank you.
