My husband and I watch RFD-TV on DISH.

It is one of the MAIN channels that we watch in our home. We use the channel daily to keep track of grain markets, market trends, crop and cattle information, as well entertainment and educational shows. If we lose access to RFD, we will cancel our satellite subscription because it is all we really care about watching.

It is very important that programming such as this continues in order that our way of life as farmers can be promoted.
