As a consumer, and a quick payer of telecommunications in statement bills. The service accounts are not the current consumer's responsibility, such as, for at&t. It is critical to never let an unfriendly establishment be your constant Provider, as their P.R. and Service is highly irritating to a person, when they can't reestablish themselves for my continuation of credible references. We are not satisfied to anymore of their motivations, as they all have been not consistent nor regulated correctly, many have found in their accounts, as well. I am in hopes to solve my Service someone else, as the people aren't cooperative, and this is terrible.
