

60001841701.txt

Designating Morse (radiotelegraphy) Amateur Radio band segments as "symbol communication" subbands and allowing additional modes therein is unnecessary. This needless restriction of CW communications - a time-tested mode and viable choice for communicating even in today's environment - would only serve to make communication via CW more difficult for those who rely on it by crowding their frequencies with other digital and video modes.