

60001841920.txt

I vigorously oppose the idea of eliminating amateur radio subbands now allocated to CW (morse code). CW remains an important means of radio communication, especially at low power levels and potentially in emergencies. Interference from other communication modes would likely make effective CW communications impossible. I vote NO.