Dear Chairman Wheeler,

Your so-called Internet privacy rules give a free pass to the Obama Administration's biggest corporate supporter, Google, Google is the biggest digital stalker in the history of civilization. Google's Chairman openly admits he cares very little about my online privacy:

"I don't believe society understands what happens when everything is available, knowable and recorded by everyone all the time."

Welcome to 1984, Big Brother, Google and all.

Your badly-titled "net neutrality" rules exempt President Obama's multi-billion dollar corporate cronies from having to follow them, and your new privacy rules have a Google-sized special interest carve-out as well.

This kind of special deals to enrich corporate political donors at the expense of ordinary citizens is an outrage to Americans. Enough of this!
