

60001842218.txt

FCC rules with huge exemptions are not really rules, but rather government favoritism. Internet privacy rules that are not applied equally to all offer no protection except to the "chosen" corporations that the rules exempt. Generally speaking, less government intervention is preferable.