

60001856419.txt

I am opposed to any changes in the CW sub bands. Despite the removal of the requirement to pass a CW proficiency test to get an amateur radio license, CW is more popular than ever. All you have to do is listen to the CW portion on the ham bands, especially when there is a contest going on. Removing the sub band would result in a significant increase in interference.

I think that this proposal is not in the best interest of amateur radio.