

60002071246.txt

It is remarkable that any communications company can add limitless fees for the products they sell and that have become somewhat of a necessity due to market pressures.