

60002084923.txt

Robocalls to cell phones have become more frequent and more annoying. They use spoofing addresses so we cannot list them. They use valuable minutes on my plan, and they call at inopportune times. They are expensive pests. My Verizon landline has Nomorobo, which has essentially eliminated these calls to that line. I do not understand why Verizon Wireless cannot offer its customers the same screening.