

60002093696.txt

In this economy more and more people are falling into trouble from time to time, please don't allow companies to make it worse by annoying our friends and families with our financial problems. Just because people fall behind on their debits from time to time doesn't mean that they shouldn't have some privacy. It's bad enough I have to supply a Credit Report when I apply for a job, should banks be able to call everyone I know as well?