Dear Chairman Wheeler,

You are doing absolutely nothing to protect our online privacy. In fact, you are using the power of government to create two sets of rules, while protecting certain hand-picked companies from any privacy rules whatsoever!

Your privacy plan doesn't regulate certain business practices, but rather selectively regulates those business practices by certain companies but not others.

This is the absolute worst example of industrial policy because it has government rather than the free market pick winners and losers in the marketplace.

Sincerely,

Bill Wilson
