

60002099655.txt

The FCC has no authority above the constitution. Free speech is our right. Regulating the Internet by inventing taxes, limiting free expression, etc. The invasion and selling of private information about the users of the Internet for commercial interests must be regulated to preserve the privacy of the user and maintain free market without special interest groups gaining special privileges by government regulations.