The FCC should dismiss this petition without further consideration.

The only CW only sub bands in existence are small segments of the VHF spectrum as well as parts of the HF spectrum specifically for novice and technician license holders.

I believe the author of this petition is actually referring to the allocations currently designated for CW, RTTY and Data emissions. That being the case, no rule changes are necessary.

Also Morse code communications are very much alive and well in the Amateur Radio Service.

Thank you for your time,
