

60002364342.txt

Internet Service Providers should protect the privacy of all equally. We need strong broadband privacy protections to ensure this.

Stand up to pressure from Internet Service Providers by enacting strong protections that give consumers control over their information.

We need our sources of information to be free of tainting by big money interests.

Stand up to pressure from Internet Service Providers by enacting strong protections that give consumers control over their information.

Don't allow ISPs to evade privacy protections with "pay for privacy" schemes, and ban them from monitoring the content of our communications.