

Sure I'm all for the FBI tracking my every movement, I love being able to have my government know my every move.

It makes me feel so much safer knowing that the upright government officials who kept freedom alive during Waco, Ruby Ridge, and the McCarthy Commie hunts, will now be able to monitor me 24/7 as well.

In fact, why not just have them install cameras in our home TV sets, that way they will be able to root out even more drug traffickers, terrorists, communists, jews, and liberals. You can never be too careful.

And when are those nifty little sub-dermal electronic tracking devices going to be installed - I can hardly wait.

I love my government, and if they want to be able to know what I'm doing at all times, well I'm just happy they'll shread the Constitution to do it.
