

I find no necessary reason for the government to "track" users of cellular telephones. We as citizens, with Rights, would like to retain the little privacy that is available now. It would not surprise me if suspected criminals are currently subject to these devices. I value highly my Right to privacy. Being a citizen of the USA I do not believe our right to privacy should be taken away.