

Neither I nor the majority of my friends, family or associates believe this to be a well-tailored and defined proposal, for all that it may be well-intentioned. I would encourage you to review the idea from a worst-case scenario with members of the press, free-speech advocates and others who have important countervailing opinions before you take, what I believe to be a big leap towards infringement of a basic right.