

I oppose any restriction on network access via satellite. Our local stations often preempt network programs and the satellite is the only means of obtaining access to preempted shows. In addition as I understand it the territorial rights of most utilities are in the process of being removed to allow local competition. Should the local station be any different? I think not. If they offer the higher quality of service and programming they will get the viewers. Otherwise the station offering satellite access will get it.