

There is a serious flaw in the thinking that this action proposes. The GMRS is a private, not public, radio service. Dropping the prohibition about unauthorized use of others' stations (repeaters) would eliminate licensed repeater owner/operators' regulatory support that previously established their power to control the use of same. This would not be consistent with a private radio service.