

In the matter of the creation of Low Power Radio service, I feel that this would be one way for the FCC to aid minority broadcasters such as myself to get into the ownership end of the radio broadcasting arena. Due in no small part to consolidation, purchasing, owning and operating radio broadcasting properties that have a legitimate chance to compete, has been almost completely unattainable...until now. So this is one person's comment for the passing of the docket to create Low Power FM Service.
