

Personal Tracking device is an invasion of privacy. My husband and I are elderly, retired people, but we have children and grandchildren. As caretakers of the next generation, we feel we must protect their future.