

Dear F.C.C.

I urge you to reconsider the restructuring of Amateur Radio Testing. I fear that the Ham Bands will degrade to the level of uncontrolled mayhem that is prevalent on the CB bands today. Please reconsider a higher speed Morse code test for Extra Class exams and tougher standards for the written elements, they are already too easy. I am no electronics wizard and I was able to go from no license to Extra in just 7 months, it was not difficult. If your intent is to destroy Amateur radio, then I believe you are on the road to success.

Reference WT Docket 98-143 (Amateur Radio Restructuring) and the Wormser, Adsit, and Dinelli Petition. The Report & Order is called FCC 99-412.

Sincerely: James Anthony (AD6FR)
