ERRATUM TO THE REPLY COMMENTS OF CITIZENS COMMUNICATIONS

Citizens Utilities Company, on behalf of itself and its incumbent local exchange telecommunications subsidiaries (collectively, “Citizens Communications”), by its attorneys, hereby submits an erratum to its January 24, 2000 reply to various comments filed in the above-styled matter and shows as follows:

1. The FCC’s Staff has advised that the Exhibit referred to in page 3 of Citizens Communications’ reply comments, entitled “Analysis of Productivity Trends of Citizens Communications,” was not included with the January 24, 2000 electronic filing.
2. For reasons discernible only by a computer expert, which the undersigned counsel is decidedly not, the Exhibit did not transmit to the FCC as a subdocument/master document as intended. The computer file does show that the subdocument/master document function was properly performed before transmission to the Commission.
3. A discrete file containing the Exhibit is being transmitted simultaneously with this erratum.¹

Respectfully submitted,

CITIZENS UTILITIES COMPANY
