

Filtering Internet content cannot be implemented without denying users access to appropriate material. Your attempts to control what the public views are an inefficient waste of taxpayer dollars. Refusing to deal with issues (hiding behind a filter) will only aggravate a situation into a true societal problem.

For examples, see the drug war, see prohibition. Failed social experiments. Implement filtering and join the ranks of government agencies who lose the public's support, respect, and confidence.