

Dear FCC: I strongly urge you to force AT&T to divest itself from other cable interests in its purchase of Media One. I have seen first hand the effects of a company like AT&T having a near monopoly of cable service and it results in horrible customer service and an unreliable product. I am currently in an area that AT&T has a cable monopoly. AT&T has been refused to provide broadband Internet service in spite of extremely strong customer demand because it has no competition. If there was competition, AT&T would be forced to expand its service or lose customers.

Thank you,

Emmett Salberg
