

In all the news about possible restructuring plans for XO Communications, the only concern is with bond holders. Equity holders like myself will be left with nothing. There is apparently considerable value in XO Communications and it seems grossly unfair that equity holders will not be given the chance to participate in it.