

I called Verizon, my telephone provider, two years ago for broadband and they keep saying not in there time table yet. I've called Marcus, my would be cable provider, and they too are not showing any chance of me getting broadband internet. Now you want to charge wireless a fee to give to these guys. I think not! All verizon would have too do is install the darn equipment and I would be there customer.