

It would be impossible to make all transcieveres "field repairable" and still manufacture them using the modern techniques and componants that have given us the capabilities, miniturization and low prices we all enjoy. Technology marches on. "Repair" now means replacement of ever more integrated circuits, not simple componants like tubes and transistors. In some cases it perforce means replacing the whole radio. Thank you for the opportunity to comment on and oppose this proposal.