

I want to add my voice to the many that are asking the government to FINALLY provide for number portability with cell phone services.

When the baby bells were deregulated the FCC made number portability mandatory so as to provide competition within the industry. The FCC argued that number portability would not do anything to harm the Baby Bells and was essential to any meaningful competition within the local phone service industry. If the FCC contradicts itself now, it will show everyone that campaign contributions mean more to the government than meaningful competition.

It is up to you.
