REPLY COMMENTS OF SPRINT

Sprint Corporation (Sprint), hereby replies to comments filed July 2, 2002 in the above-referenced proceeding. While the comments addressed many of the issues of concern to Sprint, these reply comments address two additional issues. Specifically, Sprint suggests additional protection related to data accessibility and suggests a web-site enhancement.

In Section 2.13.4 Data Accessibility, it is not clear to Sprint what authorization will be required for a user that does not possess a logon ID or password but requests forms or reports. To the extent a user request is made outside of the electronic interface, Sprint urges a signature authorization requirement or some other requirement to ensure data is not provided to unauthorized users.

Under Section 7.19.3 Web Site Design, Sprint suggests that a search engine be provided to enable clients to efficiently navigate the web site. A search engine is a commonly employed internet web site tool and such a tool has been requested by the industry for some time.
