CITY OF KENT, WASHINGTON, 2002 ABOUT OUR COMMUNITY

Location

Kent's breathtaking setting features a view of Mt. Rainier rising majestically over the landscape, and the Cascade and Olympic Mountains on the horizons. Kent is centrally located between two major ports; Seattle, 18 miles to the north, and Tacoma, 18 miles to the south on the Interstate 5 corridor. The city is seven miles from SeaTac International Airport. Both the Union Pacific and Burlington Northern Railroads run through Kent and the city is now a major stop for the regional commuter rail system.

History

Kent was incorporated in 1890, second only to Seattle in King County. Kent has been a major grower of hops and berries, and at one time was considered the "Lettuce Capital of the World". At the same time, dairy farming was becoming an important segment of the Kent economy. In 1899, the first can of Carnation Milk was produced in Kent. Timber harvesting and agriculture remained the dominant industries of Kent until the 1950's when industrial development began to today's significant industrial north core. The City of Kent has expanded from one square mile in area in 1953 to our current size of 28.75 square miles. Since annexation is required of all areas inside the urban-rural line established under the Growth Management Act, Kent will continue to expand in size over the next few years.

Population

Kent is centrally located in the Puget Sound region of Washington State, an area that is home to two million people. It is the second largest city in South King County with an approximate population of 82,782 as of December 2001 and projections of over 100,000 within the next few years. As the new century begins, Kent continues to charge toward not only becoming one of the leading cities in King County, but in all of Washington State.

City Government

Kent operates under a Council-Mayor form of government. The City Council consists of seven citizens of Kent who are elected at large to staggered, four-year terms. The members of the City Council then elect one to serve as President of the City Council. The member elected serves a two-year term as President, and can be re-elected to as many two-year terms as desired by a majority of the City Council. The President of the City Council serves as the Mayor Pro Tem during any absence from the city by the Mayor. The City Council has five committees: Planning, Public Safety, Parks, Operations, and Public Works. Each year the City Council adopts a number of Strategic Goals that the city pursues.

ABOUT OUR COMMUNITY

Economy

Where river steamboats once transported crops to Seattle's public market, truckers now arrive at Kent warehouses to pick up and deliver goods for the global marketplace. The valley's industrial area has one of the largest concentrations of distribution, warehousing, and manufacturing facilities in North America, Kent has a well-earned reputation as an economic barometer for the region. In 2000, Kent purchased 15.4 acres with plans to develop a mixed-use site adjacent to the Kent Rail Station with plans to "Grow the Economy" through public/private development of the site. This will not only provide increased tax revenue but also provide new jobs and link new development with existing historic downtown.

The last year has not been without challenges. We were subjected to a variety of seminal events including a major earthquake in February and the terrorist attack in September. Our economy, like the nations, has declined. Locally our economic condition was complicated by Boeing cutbacks. Each of these major events has created budget constraints. Kent has reacted by making cuts and adjustments just as a business or a family would adjust to the changing economic realities.

Parks, Recreation and Community Services

The Kent Parks Department has been recognized nationally for Excellence in Parks and Recreation Management. The Specialized Recreation division was awarded the Dorothy Mullen Arts and Humanities Award for the Stewpot Theatre, a theatrical group for disabled citizens. In 2001, a successful public/private partnership allowed construction and opening of a new ice rink. The East Hill Youth Sports Complex, consisting of three ballfields, will be built on special turf that will allow year-round play and is expected to be complete by the end of 2002. Human Services has developed a one-stop plan for Kent Human Service agencies. There is a full range of parks services and classes for youth, teens, adults and disabled citizens.

Leisure Services

1,348 Acres of
Parkland
90 Parks
20 miles of trails
32 Ball Fields
15 Tennis Courts

Ice Skating Rink

Recently, the Parks and Recreation department submitted and received the Washington Recreation and Parks Association Award of Merit for an Outstanding Facility and Park. The Kent Valley Ice Centre, which opened in December 2001, is a 66,000 square-foot facility featuring the largest ice arena in the Northwest. The ice rink has state-of-the-art light and sound systems and a top-notch refrigeration system with infrared sensors and computer controls capable of providing ice quality needed for competitive hockey and figure skating. In addition, there is a full featured restaurant with heated view dining overlooking the ice, a 4,000-square foot interactive arcade center, private party rooms, conference and banquet rooms with catering capabilities, ballet rooms and an office-training center. The facility has been designed to accommodate a second ice surface for future development.

The City leases the land on which the arena was built and receives some services in lieu of rent and two hours of ice time and instruction every day for residents. Programs and services include adult hockey leagues for men and women of all skill levels, hockey classes and camps, drop-in hockey sessions, hockey tournaments and figure skating shows and competitions. Skaters enjoy public sessions with live DJs and light shows. Visitors will also find the largest ice skating-related pro shop in the Northwest.

Golf Course

Golfers can enjoy 27 holes of first class golf between the 6,666 yard 18 hole course and the 1,174-yard Par 3 course. The Driving Range features 32 covered hitting stations with lights, multiple target greens, and a learning center. In addition, a miniature golf course offers a fun recreational opportunity for all ages and skill levels. Fire Creek Grill, a new first class restaurant, was opened in August of 2000 and most recently a merchandising shop was established.

Regional Library

Kent's Regional Library is part of the King County Library System. In addition to a large collection of books, newspapers, magazines, reference works, video and audiotapes, the Library offers a variety of other services. Among those services are many activities for children, including story times, games and songs. In addition to a monthly book club, concerts, plays and presentations are held at the Library. Several classes are offered, including library skills, Web surfing, and many other topics.

Senior Center

The Kent Senior Activity Center is a 21,000 square foot facility offering a variety of programs and social activities for active seniors. A variety of trips as well as social activities are conducted at the Center, including a book discussion group, card games, concerts, dances, and many others. Services provided include computer classes, health and financial workshops, legal clinics, senior assistance, grooming and health clinics and classes covering a variety of topics. The Senior Center also hosts many community events and is actively used all year.

Kent Station

The Kent Station, located just north of downtown, is in various stages of planning and development. The City will participate in a public/private partnership for the development of an urban village on up to 22.5 acres of prime real estate adjacent to the Sound Transit Commuter Rail Station. The envisioned urban village and greenspace will serve as a social gathering place for the community that attracts people for breakfast through the evening hours. The development of Kent's expanded urban core will strengthen the sense of community that makes Kent one of south King County's most desirable places to live, work, shop and relax.

Residents recently visited the second of three community forums introducing this project. There they got a look at plans to envision a high-quality downtown that will include stores, shops, office complexes, a cinema, entertainment and recreation centers, a college campus and residential units. Building the roads and other infrastructure is expected to begin summer of 2002, with phase one development planned for spring or summer of 2003.

King County Parks Budget Situation

King County is facing a significant budget shortfall in the County's general expense fund. This shortfall may have a major impact on parks. For more information, link to the King County Parks Web Site.

Community volunteers were appointed to the Metropolitan Parks Task Force this spring and charged with examining the parks funding crisis. They will recommend short-term and long-term funding solutions and ways to keep as many parks and facilities open as possible despite the budget shortfall. The County Executive and County Council will consider the recommendations along with public comments as they develop a budget for 2003. More information on the Metropolitan Parks Task Force

The City of Kent is monitoring this process. The main facility in Kent that may be impacted is the Kent Pool at Kent Meridian High School which is operated by King County. The only other King County park in Kent city limits is a portion of the Soos Creek Trail.

Kent History

When the City of Kent incorporated in 1890, the population was 763. Kent was the second city in King County to incorporate.

Kent began as an agricultural area. Hops were the first major crop (first planted in 1878), leading to the rapid growth of Kent in its early years. Almost a million pounds of hops were harvested in 1888. Truck farming began in 1917, and during the 1920s, Kent became known as the "lettuce capital of the world."

Annual floods of the Green and White rivers contributed to the agricultural fertility of the Kent valley. During the Great Flood of 1906, the valley turned into a giant lake, as flood waters rose up to two feet above some houses. The White River found a new channel into the Puyallup River, thus alleviating some of the flooding in Kent.

In 1963, the Howard Hanson Dam was completed at Eagle Gorge on the upper Green River, taming most of the flooding. This enabled industrial development to take place on the valley floor, leading to Kent's rapid rise as a major distribution center.

Greater Kent Historical Museum

General Information

HomeAbout the MuseumLocal HistoryTeacher Resources

The bountiful history of the Kent Valley comes alive at the Greater Kent Historical Society Museum in the Bereiter house. The museum is one of Kent's oldest and finest homes, a three story 1908 craftsman style with carriage entry. The home is furnished with donated period furniture and an extensive gallery of local historical artifacts. Outside the museum Stuart Nakamura created Another Place, Another Time, an outdoor work of art honoring Kent's Japanese-American community.

Our Mission

The mission of the Greater Kent Historical Society is to collect, preserve and promote the history of the Greater Kent area.

Museum Information

The Museum is conveniently located just east of downtown Kent, in the historic Bereiter house.

Kent's History

The history of the Kent Valley is rich and diverse, much like the city for which it is named. Before the first white settlers reached the area now known as Kent, nomadic native peoples lived on the land. White settlers came into conflict with these native peoples as the settlers moved in and staked out land claims. In 1856 the U.S. government signed a treaty with the native peoples. The treaty established the Muckleshoot Indian Reservation southeast of Auburn. The native peoples relocated to the reservation, and the white settlers began to farm and log the land in earnest.

In 1878 hops became the crop of choice for farmers in Kent Valley. With the arrival of the Northern Pacific Railroad, the growing town needed a name to identify its train station. The town chose Kent because the main hop-growing region of England is Kent County. By the time Kent incorporated in 1890 with a population of 853 people, hop farming was a thing of the past. Other forms of agriculture continued to thrive, with lettuce farms and cherry orchards springing up throughout the valley. Some farmers turned to chicken farms as well.

Annual flooding plagued Kent, and in 1946 the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began a flood control study. The result of the study was the Howard Hanson Dam on the upper Green River, completed in 1961. With the dam's completion, the Kent economy shifted toward industry. By 1970, Boeing had built its aerospace center in Kent, and three large highways (I-5, I-405, and State Highway 167) connected Kent to neighboring cities. Kent continues to develop as a significant center of industry and commerce today.
