

My wife and I receive on average 6-10 calls from telemarketers Monday through Friday between the hours of 5:00 PM EST through 10:00 PM EST. On Saturday and Sunday telemarketers usually begin calling around 8:00 AM EST and call periodically throughout the day until around 9:00 PM EST. We are extremely frustrated with total volume of calls. In beginning we used to answer the calls and ask to be removed from that organization's list. The volume has gotten to the point where we're so overwhelmed that we don't even answer our phone if we don't recognize the number. We have also asked to be removed from lists, but it seems like once we're removed from one we're added to at least two others. Based on conversations with Verizon, paying for any additional services may not eliminate the problem completely. There should be a way to regain our privacy. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Jonathan Parziale
